An Ongoing Conversation

On behalf of the Alumni Association, I am delighted to welcome you to this new column and the redesigned Lafayette Magazine. Future letters will keep you up to date on activities on campus and opportunities available to alumni around the country.

With the Alumni Summer College, the installation of Alison Byerly as Lafayette's new president, and the recent successful Homecoming, there is plenty to write about. However, this month, I would like to focus on the alumni survey.

Earlier this year, Lafayette surveyed the 18,000 alumni for whom we have email addresses. To assure that the results were accurate, the College retained a consultant who has undertaken this work on behalf of institutions nationwide. Our goal was to understand better how graduates feel about their experiences both as students and alumni, their view of the College today, and ways in which the Association can better serve you. Michael Weisburger '82 represented the Alumni Council on the committee; we thank him for investing extensive time and effort.

We were gratified by your response. Nearly 1,900 of you participated, a figure that our consultants tell us is higher than normal. Of that group, 93 percent rated both their decision to attend Lafayette and their experiences here as "excellent" or "good."

Two related conclusions were particularly interesting to me. First, the most important aspect of Lafayette for alumni was the value of their degree, not just in terms of the income it represents, but also the perception of the College in their community. Second, respondents viewed service as the College's "ambassadors" as their major contribution. What we also learned, though, is that you would like additional help in that communications role. This column and the redesigned magazine are just part of our efforts to give you more accessible information about Lafayette today. There's more about the survey on the following pages and at alumni.lafayette.edu/alumni-attitude-study.

Communication is a two-way street, so please drop me a note with any suggestions or comments. You can find me in the Official Lafayette Alumni group on LinkedIn. And, if possible, join President Byerly at one of the gatherings where she is meeting alumni around the country.

TAKING THE Pulse

The charts below provide highlights of the results from the alumni survey administered earlier this year and discussed by David Reif '68, president of the Alumni Association, in his column. The study was compiled in consultation with Performance Enhancement Group Ltd. of Houston, which has done similar work with more than 130 other colleges and universities.

Audience Character

ERAS	NUMBER		FRATERNITY/SORORITY MEMBERSHIP

➔ Hubert Vance Taylor '35 at the baptism of his great-granddaughters

Hubert Vance Taylor '35, formerly of Decatur, Ga., died June 2. He was 99 years old. Just six months ago, he baptized two of his great-granddaughters, one the daughter of Kurt Rossetti '90 and Elizabeth Irvin Rossetti, his granddaughter (photo below and online, Class of 1990 website).

On Dec. 30, Taylor baptized Margot Jeanne Rossetti, born in October 2012, daughter of Kurt '90 and Elizabeth Irvin Rossetti, San Francisco, Calif.; and Caroline Vance Pfeffer, born in August 2012, daughter of Katharine Irvin and Russell Pfeffer, NYC. They were the second and third great-granddaughters that he has baptized.

Taylor grew up in Hershey, Pa. An English graduate, he received a master's from Columbia Theological Seminary, and a Ph.D. in public address from Northwestern University.

He and his wife and partner in sacred music, Claire Clark Taylor, who survives him, shared a ministry at Central Presbyterian Church in Atlanta for many years. He joined the faculty of Columbia Theological Seminary in 1946 as professor of worship, speech, and hymnody. They also served Columbia Presbyterian Church for many years as minister of music and organist. Taylor was a member of the committee that compiled the Presbyterian Hymnbook of 1955.

Taylor received Columbia Theological Seminary's Distinguished Service Award in 2010.

Throughout his life, he enjoyed playing the violin.

Horace S. Schwerin '36, 99, Moorestown, N.J., died April 7. A decorated World War II

Army captain, he was a science graduate with master's from The Sorbonne in Paris and Kings College London. He pioneered radio and TV advertising, co-authoring Persuasion in Marketing: The Dynamics of Marketing's Great Untapped Resource. Inducted into the Market Research Hall of Fame in 1992, he was founder and chair of Schwerin Research Corp. and also worked for Campbell's Soup. Wife Enid survives him.

Edward C. Helwick Jr. '38, 96, Los Angeles, died May 26. A government and law graduate, he edited a humor magazine while at Lafayette. In 1939, he moved to California as a radio scriptwriter, working with Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, and many other celebrities. An Army Air Corps captain in World War II, he was stationed in Nome, Alaska. Edward earned a political science master's from USC and spent 30 years teaching at Culver City High School, where he won a Fulbright grant, was awarded Outstanding Teacher, and was honored as California's Teacher of the Year in 1974. In 1961, Edward, wife Terry, and son Bob traveled around the world, visiting 32 countries.

I (Floyd LaBarre) received three pages from Alumni Relations listing the Class of '40 graduates: 172 deceased and 18 living. Please send me your postal mail updates or give me a call to share your news.

My father was a Delaware-Lackawanna Railroad locomotive engineer. He said he would help me go to Lafayette if I promised never to work on the railroad. I graduated in administrative engineering and was employed by Curtiss Wright Corp. before I graduated and made aircraft propellers, systems, and parts until that portion of the company closed. I joined Wagner Electric Corp. at 61 and retired at 66.

Mayo Wills Lanning died June 22, a month after celebrating his 97th birthday. Wife Trudy predeceased him. A graduate of Washington (N.J.) High School in 1935. A mining engineering graduate, he worked for the New Jersey Zinc Co. in New Jersey, Colorado, and Pennsylvania for 25 years. He obtained master's degrees in business administration and in economics from Lehigh University. In 1967, he joined the faculty of Moravian College, retiring in 1981 as professor emeritus. In his later years, Mayo was in frail health and had mobility problems, but he continued to read and was adept at using a computer. He and I (Tony Noto) communicated by phone.

Frederick Bryant Woodruff Jr., 93, Morrisville, Pa., died June 20. His was buried at Washington Crossing National Cemetery, Newtown, Pa., with High Military Honors. He served with the Army during World War II. According to The Melange, he attended Lafayette 1937-39. He was a high-speed train engineer with Pennsylvania Railroad for 40 years. He is survived by his companion, Mabel A. Georgiades.

Robert Harry Stuhler, 92, Bay Head, N.J., died Aug. 21. At Lafayette, the Phi Kappa Psi brother was on the tennis team and captained his senior year. On graduating economics and business,

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

Buck Family Support Is Far-Reaching

"There is an old adage that if you have a good experience in school, college, or fraternity, you should put something back," says William C. "Bill" Buck '50, executive vice president, TDH Capital Corp., Radnor, Pa.

Just one example of the ways he has given back, along with his late brother J. Alexander "Whip" Buck '53, is through his fraternity, Zeta Psi. In 1988, Bill received the International Zeta Psi Distinguished Service Award for his support and leadership. More recently, he provided a major contribution to Zeta Psi, Tau Chapter's gift of the new stone gateway sign at the corner of College Avenue and McCartney Street, part of a larger project to enhance, beautify, and define major entryways to the campus.

Quietly, Bill and his wife, Laura Buck, as well as other Buck family members have worked to support the areas of the College that have meant the most to them. They have been generous supporters for nearly 100 years, beginning with J. Mahlon Buck '21, who was awarded an honorary degree in 1964. Mahlon was president of Smith, Kline & French, Inc., Philadelphia, which became GlaxoSmithKline in 2001. The Buck legacy continued with support from Mahlon's wife, Grace. After that,

Bill and Whip carried on the tradition. Bill, the last remaining member of the immediate family with ties to the College, along with Laura as a steadfast supporter, carries on for his brother and father.

The Bucks have contributed their support to music, arts, and sports programs as well as Skillman Library. The endowments and years of establishment include the J. Mahlon Buck Library Fund (1959), Buck Concert Series (1970), and Buck Family Endowment Fund for Music (1981) by Grace and her sons. The squash courts in Allan P. Kirby Sports Center were named in their honor for support of the center, which was dedicated in 2000.

Bill, an economics graduate, former Board Associate, and chair of the Annual Fund for several years, also has volunteered as alumni chapter council representative, alumni chapter council executive committee, and phonathon volunteer. In the 1970s, Bill played alto saxophone in the Zeta Psi Dixieland Band. He also has given generously of his time when called upon to offer his guidance and leadership at critical junctures for the College. ■

Bill Buck '50 and wife Laura were presented with an illustration of the family's gifts to the College on Oct. 16 during a reception in their honor at Skillman Library.

Bob joined the Navy and served as a first lieutenant and captain of a PT boat. He served in the Normandy Invasion and later in the Pacific Theater. He studied law at Rutgers University, worked as a corporate lawyer for Curtis Wright, and was a partner with Nichols, Thompson & Peck. Later, he managed his father-in-law's equipment dealership. Bob, a skilled jazz pianist, had his own band and performed at Asbury Park's grand hotels as well as clubs in NYC. He avidly played tennis, along with his wife of 57 years, Patricia, who was nationally ranked. Patricia died in 2000.

Frances M. Alden, 99, wife of Class President Otto Alden, died Aug. 15. The Aldens were married 70 years.

Walter Thomas Sergy '44, 90, Canton, Ga., died July 7. Interment followed in the Georgia National Cemetery alongside wife Virginia, who died in 2011. Walter was recruited to play football at Lafayette, serving as team captain his senior year. He played in the 1944 East-West Shrine football game in San Francisco.

Richard Wilson Reichard '44, 89, Chicago, died May 1. He grew up in Allentown, Pa., and did graduate work in history at Harvard and Stanford. At Cornell, Washington, Queens, and several Chicago-area universities, he taught and wrote on the rise of the social working class in 19th-century Germany, as well as courses in Asian American and African history. Wife Gloria survives him.

Joe Bianco '44 sends greetings from Nags Head, N.C.

Dick Recce '44 and wife Flo are "holding their own" in Wilmington, Del.

Harold McPheeters '44, Atlanta, enjoys gardening, tending roses at the Dorothy C. Benson Senior Complex, and doing some research. He anticipated a reunion for local Leopards.

Walter Goetz '44, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., has been blessed by the excellent care given wife Lois in a life care community, Vicar Landing Way. Walter had recent surgery but gets to the golf course. His advice: "Stay in the game."

Bob Williams '44, in Kentucky, celebrated his 91st with his children. "They will not let me get old."

Gerard A. Haefeli '45, 88, Toms River, N.J., died July 5 at home, surrounded by his family. Prior to retiring in 1989, he was a chemical engineer for GAF in Wayne, N.J.

I (Bob Sandercock '44) am a "little behind the curve." Judy has been a good caretaker, having learned much from a country doctor (her father). Al Mock '44 asked about my health.

Hugh Mahaffy '44, Wilmington, Del., volunteered with the Tall Ships program helping to build a seagoing vessel similar to the one that brought Swedes to the new world. She sailed from Norfolk, Va., to Cape Cod. Hugh's daughter lives with him and teaches biology at the University of Delaware. His son works in a hospital in Pennsylvania.

We have a new president! Warren Groves accepted the nomination and unanimous vote of Class of '48 grads at Reunion.

I (Harvey Hunerberg) am former president but remain as class correspondent. I've been to each of the 13 five-year reunions and the first five annual affairs. We're members of the 50-Plus Club. The final dinner was held Saturday night with our table front and center.

We heard some exciting speeches plus a few words from Milton Moore '43, who shared his story of phoning California from campus 62 years ago. "Today, I called my daughter to say that it was from this spot that I called her mother to ask her to marry me! She did, and we had the most wonderful marriage. It ended a few months ago when she died."

Robert G. Ernst Jr. died March 28. Born in New Jersey, he was a chemical engineering graduate. He served in the Army Air Corps in B-17s as a navigator and returned home to marry Patricia. Bob worked for 35 years in the oil industry, retiring in 1982. The Ernsts settled on a tree farm in Huntsville, Texas. They were involved for years in various goodwill organizations, and Bob was nominated as Citizen of the Year. Patricia survives him. Brother John '57 died in 2011.

PROFILE

Pierre '06 Named "40 Under Forty"

Talking with Nkrumah Pierre '06 is like boarding a high-speed luxury train: He's polished, solid, agile, and speaks with a rapid cadence that drives the conversation forward while never losing focus on the topic—or you. Key qualities for someone who makes his living by networking.

A senior manager of business development for New York-based recruiting and staffing firm Russell Tobin & Associates, Pierre was recently recognized by The Network Journal in its annual "40 Under Forty" feature on young professionals to watch. The monthly business magazine focuses on black professionals and small business owners.

Pierre, an economics and business graduate, credits several professors for his pathway to success: Thomas Bruggink, professor emeritus of economics; Edward Seifried, professor emeritus of economics and business; and John McCartney, the late associate professor of government and law ("one of the toughest professors I've ever had in my life").

He is also grateful for his internship in Career Services. "Career Services is near and dear to me," he says, "for helping me with my résumé, for my internship, and helping me to learn how to network and make connections."

"I'm a huge proponent of networking," says Pierre. "I love connecting like-minded individuals, I love adding value to other people, and also it's something I'm passionate about."

At Russell Tobin, he's head of diversity and inclusion, seeking to enrich his clients with candidates of color, LGBTQ individuals, and people from underrepresented colleges and universities. "Diversity is essential to collaboration, and collaboration is essential to increasing profit."

Community has long been important for Pierre. He serves with United Way's Young Leaders Council and mentors children and youth through Harlem Children's Zone and Sponsors for Educational Opportunity. President of the New York Alumni Chapter, he is former co-chair of McDonogh Network and serves on the Implementation and Assessment Group on Greek Life.

Kelley-Cogdell '10 Named Future Leader in Manufacturing

Finding manufacturing solutions for aerospace companies is daily fare for Aubrey Kelley-Cogdell '10. A computer-aided manufacturing programmer, she has been recognized for her skill in saving manufacturers thousands of dollars each year by being named to the "30 Under 30" list by Manufacturing Engineering Media, which spotlights future leaders in manufacturing.

Kelley-Cogdell, who works at aerospace application center Sandvik Coromant, Fair Lawn, N.J., assists companies with their manufacturing needs and develops new processes using automated metalworking machines called CNCs. Her job requires technical expertise combined with presentation skills; she describes it as rewarding and "hands-on."

"My Lafayette education provided the framework and method I use in all my current projects," says Kelley-Cogdell, a mechanical engineering graduate with a master's in biomedical engineering from New Jersey Institute of Technology.

"The small class size allowed for engaging discussions and lots of machine time in the workshop. My presidency in Engineers Without Borders gave me international project experience and allowed me to manage a large multidisciplinary team. Resources like the aerodesign and thermofluids lab provided hands-on experience with high-quality engineering equipment used in the industry."

She appreciates her liberal arts education as well. "I took outside courses to supplement my technical studies. This prepared me for a career that requires more than strictly technical skills. English, Spanish, and art classes improved my communication and presentation skills. I've received positive feedback on my success in effectively communicating my engineered solutions."

Marvin Riddle III and wife M.J. live in a retirement village at Moorings Park near Naples, Fla., and summer in their Easton townhome. They planned a 60th wedding anniversary in Bermuda in September. The Riddles have two grandchildren in college.

George Davidson, Atlantic City, N.J., would enjoy hearing from classmates, (609) 233-1769. An amputation of his lower leg did not resolve blockage in a vein, so his entire leg was removed. He was hospitalized four months.

Ray Huber, Atlantic City, often visits him.

Pete Wolfe sends best wishes to Phi Psi buddies George Hoolahan, George Butz, Robert Duffy, and Fredrick "T-Bone" Trumbour '49. Pete has severe Parkinson's and is confined to a wheelchair, so brother Philip '57 reported for him. Pete and wife Betty enjoy a retirement community in Wyomissing, Pa. They have seven grandchildren.

Robert Hamlen remains active as a battery scientist. Consulting jobs keep him working almost full time, reports daughter Michele Hamlen Klein '93. Bob lives in New Jersey with his wife, son, and grandson.

James Zilli, California, says he will try to make the next reunion.

Rick Knox works full time as a lawyer in Philadelphia. He and wife Eileen have five grandkids.

Edwin Roscoe "Big Ed" Conklin Jr., 83, Point Pleasant Beach, N.J., died June 11. At Butler (N.J.) High School, he was captain of the All-State basketball team. His sales and marketing career included working for McGraw-Hill, Pullman Power, and Research-Cottrell. He founded Conklin Sales & Marketing in Point Pleasant, from which he retired. Ed served on the board of Industrial Gas Cleaning Institute, testifying before Congress, and as president of the Elizabeth Carter Beach Association, and was a charter member of Butler Lions Club. He married twice: Lucille Freeman, the mother of his children, and Cathy Regan. Bob Becker, his roommate at Theta Chi, reported Ed's passing.

Thomas Elwood Cox died June 6. A business graduate, he was a member of Zeta Psi fraternity and played tennis on the College team. He served with the Army Signal Corps in El Paso, Texas, received an MBA from University of North Carolina, and held a professional engineer license. He worked at IBM for 20 years before founding the company Room Acoustic Analysis. He is survived by wife Diane and nephew Bradford Cox Schundler '02. He is the brother of the late Henry Allison Cox '40.

Dr. Arthur J. "Mac" McPadden Jr., 85, died March 28. His wife of 56 years, Carol, survives him. Art attended University of Connecticut before serving as an Army sergeant in Japan. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa and summa cum laude from Lafayette and received his M.D. from University of Vermont. After an internship at St. Vincent's Hospital, Bridgeport, Conn., he completed a fellowship in endocrinology at Philadelphia Children's Hospital. He moved to California in 1962 as a member of Kaiser Permanente where he was a pediatrician for 37 years and honored as Outstanding Physician of 1990.

Robert Lloyd Kaercher, 88, died June 29 in Easton, Md. He served in the Navy aboard the USS Buchanan in the Pacific Theater, receiving multiple commendations. A civil engineering graduate, in 1954, he added a master's from Drexel Institute in that field. His career with Havens and Emerson, an environmental engineering firm, lasted 38 years, and he retired a partner. A member of the Freemason No. 396 Dallas Lodge, he received his 50-year pin December 2002. He was also a life member of VFW Post 2174. Wife Jean predeceased him.

Thomas A. Sparta, 83, died April 4 at his home in Stone Harbor, N.J. He attended Easton High School. A chemistry graduate, he joined the National Printing Ink Research Institute at Lehigh University, earning a master's in 1956. After graduate work at Indiana University, he joined Dow Chemical Co. in 1961. His work established Dow in the polyurethane business. He transferred to Zurich, started Dow's first Middle East sales office in Athens, and was manager of Italian operations. He returned to headquarters in Midland, Mich., in 1968, eventually becoming corporate director for chemicals. In 1980, he returned to Zurich as executive vice president for all commercial operations. Retiring in 1988, he spent time between Las Vegas and Stone Harbor. Wife Irene and son Thomas Jr. '81 survive him.

Several members of the 50-Plus Club wheeled through the Reunion Parade in vintage Corvettes.

Raymond Lopez, 90, died March 21 in Tracy, Calif. He attended Lafayette and served in the Army Air Forces during World War II. He earned an engineering degree from University of the Pacific. While living in Southern California in the 1980s, he designed and received a patent for a wave-activated electrical generator.

Sichel '75 Leads National Association

Superintendent of Abington School District, Montgomery County, Pa., Amy Silverstein Sichel '75 is serving as president of American Association of School Administrators for 2013–14. The organization includes more than 13,000 educational leaders here and abroad.

"I had my initial experience in the field of education and psychology at Lafayette. This foundation was extremely instrumental as I forged ahead in my career," says Sichel, a psychology graduate who earned a Ph.D. from University of Pennsylvania. "I remember with great fondness my adviser Dr. Burt Cohen, who encouraged me to pursue a Ph.D. in school psychology. His mentorship and guidance were key ingredients for me and exemplify what Lafayette offers its students."

"As AASA president, I will continue to be a strong advocate for superintendents and school administrators as well as for high-quality public schools. We need to support reforms that improve educational opportunities for all students and promote innovative accountability systems," says Sichel, who will continue the AASA effort to lobby Congress to reauthorize the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (now called No Child Left Behind Act).

She's also committed to the association's recently launched National Superintendent Certification Program, in which 25 aspiring superintendents are learning successful leadership methods.

Sichel was named Pennsylvania Superintendent of the Year in 2010 and served as president of Pennsylvania Association of School Administrators in 2010–11. She has been an adjunct associate professor at University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Education since 1981 and is currently an adjunct instructor at Delaware Valley College.

According to a College list, the class has 197 members.

Harry Gsell and wife Jean have been married 55 years. They travel extensively and spend six weeks a year in Scottsdale, Ariz., where one of their daughters lives. Harry, retired from IBM for 25 years, was borough treasurer in Mechanicsburg, Pa., for 13 years, and volunteered to do taxes for senior citizens for 17 years.

In Nyack, N.Y., Ralph Bartolacci enjoys his Albin 31 boat but two metal and plastic shoulders make it more difficult for him to fish. He invites those in the vicinity of Upper Nyack to visit.

Jim Crawford, Shawnee Mission, Kan., travels and volunteers at the art museum and the performing arts center. He lost his wife of 43 years but is dating and is fortunate to have three children nearby and one in Chicago.

Jim lives not far from Fred Braun, who has logged 20,000 hours in his single-oared shell since 1962. He plans to add 700 more this year. Retired two years ago, he and wife Margie enjoy hiking and climbing with three of their four grandchildren. Son Bruce '83 and family live in the area.

Eight grandchildren keep Penny and Pete Meadowcroft, Audubon, Pa., on the move, with frequent trips to California for weddings and for lacrosse games at Pepperdine University, where a grandson plays. They are approaching their 58th wedding anniversary. Pete plays billiards and golf and sees other Lafayette grads.

Joe Drosdick and wife Nancy celebrated their 60th anniversary with a Caribbean trip and a move to a condo near Princeton, N.J.

Two granddaughters' weddings kept them busy. Daily gym visits, duplicate bridge, and serving as church trustee also occupy Joe's time.

Max Hayden and wife Jane sold the historic King George Inn in New Jersey in 1998 and live in their longtime home near the inn.

Dr. Dan Greenholz, Denver, whose wife, Ellen, died two years ago, has recently remarried. In 1999, he retired from active practice and joined United Airlines as a flight surgeon until that function was outsourced. He has a time share in Hilton Head, S.C., and a son in Philadelphia. Two other sons are in Denver. Dan plays golf and is active with the Denver Opera.

Bill Bracken and his wife, Jean, Rock Hill, S.C., have four children. Bill was in the financial services business and specialized in bonds. He plays golf and is active in his church.

Pete Fallon and wife Margot live in the mountain area of Greer, S.C. He plays pickleball, a tennis variant, and plans to attend the 60th reunion.

Sandy Lauder and wife Diane attended the Dallas-area Lafayette-Lehigh telecast last fall. Sandy volunteers with the Richardson, Texas, police department and they both serve as volunteer greeters at Dallas/Fort Worth Airport. Their children and grandchildren live in the area.

Ted Twining, another Texan, lives in Irving. Ted transferred to University of Maryland after our sophomore year. He and his wife have a second home on the Texas Gulf Coast in Port Aransas.

He is the cousin of Hart Rufe. The judge has been retired for some time. He and wife Jewel live in the Perkasio, Pa., area. The big news is Hart's grandson, Jonathan '13, the twelfth Rufe to graduate, going back to Hart's father, William H. Rufe II '22, and including brother-in-law Sam Jackson '56 (deceased) and daughter-in-law Elizabeth Bright Rufe '82.

Lee Klaer and wife Virginia operate Lamplighter Tours of Atlanta, a reception tour company. Their three sons have completed their educations. They have seven grandchildren. The Klaers welcome visitors.

Roger Gordon's wife, Ginny, died May 29. Ginny will be fondly remembered as our hostess at many class reunions and by Philadelphia and Wilmington area alumni for the Gordon's annual Christmas gathering.

Pete W. Morrow, Wildwood, Mo., died Oct. 27, 2011. Wife Kristine survives him. Pete came from Detroit and was a psychology graduate and president of Chi Phi, a member of Maroon Key, vice president of the Interfraternity Council, and president of the Fraternity Council. He retired from Monsanto, where he was human resources manager.

The most recent 1956 Scholarship Fund recipient was Alexander Osuchowski '13, a civil engineering graduate, with a minor in architectural studies, boasting a B+ average. A catcher on the baseball team, he was named, along with 11 other team members, to the Patriot League Academic Honor Roll. He is the grandson of Ed Landis.

Alexander follows in the footsteps of the previous scholarship recipient, Elizabeth Blake '12, who graduated cum laude last year with a double major. She is the granddaughter of Gordon and Mimi Wright.

Gordon is conferring with other class officers in search of nominees to replace our late president Kit Green. Please suggest a candidate to Gordon at mewgew@comcast.net.

Dr. Rashid Abdu shared his sorrow over Kit's untimely death.

A belated death notice received from the College noted Dave Runyon died in 2001. Dave, a business administration graduate, was visible at athletic events as cheerleading captain. He was also active in WJRH, The Melange, was a deacon in College Church, and a member of Delta Upsilon.

Joseph F. Garofoli, who attended fall 1952 through fall 1953, died July 28 in Worcester, Mass. He was a member of the football team. He later transferred to Boston College, received a degree in French, and served in the Army, 1958-60. Joe graduated from Clinton (Mass.) High School after an outstanding athletic career. He returned to Clinton for 36 years as a teacher and coach. He also coached nonacademic boys' and girls' basketball teams in the West Boylston, Mass., area. His wife of 54 years, Janet, survives him.

A previous column mentioned George Watts' induction into Ardmore, Pa.'s Lower Merion High School Baseball Hall of Fame. Neil Alexander noted George was the only first-string All-American in Lafayette baseball history for his play on our celebrated team that went to the College World Series in Omaha, Neb. Ed Landis ran across George while attending a baseball game in Buies Creek, N.C., to watch grandson Alexander play ball. A note received from George's son Chris '81 discussed his father's award.

Charlotte Lee Gunter, wife of Arnold Schildkret, reports that Arnold had a severe stroke in 1995 that left him unable to walk, and he curtailed his international consulting. In 2011, he suffered another stroke that left him unable to speak. He maintains an interest in the College, and is grateful for Lafayette Magazine and its many stories of faculty and student achievement. Read Arnold's bio in the 50th reunion biography book.

John B. Powell entered Lafayette with our class but did not graduate until later. He spent most of his professional life abroad. He retired from Nellis Air Force Base in 1984. After the death of wife Tsai in 1993, he remarried in 1997, followed by a move to Mexico, where he and Teresa and her family conduct a business.

George Watts '56, who played on the Lafayette baseball team that competed in the College World Series, was the school's only first-string All-American.

The Lafayette Alumni Community website now includes Compass, anecdotes written by Lafayette alumni/ae. A memoir by Dieu Khuonghuu (see Compass online) of his freshman year on the Hill shares his experience of coming from Vietnam with few verbal skills into a foreign place to face a daunting engineering curriculum.

I (Don Mitchell) heard from my freshman roommate, Carmine Gaccione, who, as he approaches 80, practices dentistry Chester family and their condo in Punta Gorda, Fla.

Joel Every, semi-retired from his law practice in Philadelphia, makes runs to the office from his residence in Maryland.

Dr. Harvey Silver retired, though he volunteers medical work. He attended Jefferson Medical School with a few other Lafayette grads, did his residency in internal medicine at the VA Hospital in East Orange, N.J., and a year in cardiology at St. Michael's in Newark. He and I talked about old friends Dr. Steve Rader and Dr. Jack Bocher, who roomed across the hall from me in McKeen freshman year.

Bud Jost recovered from extensive open-heart surgery and is home in Snyder, N.Y. He's scheduled for a second knee replacement in January.

Norm Dion spent his career with Sears in management and represented the company in Chicago, Hollywood, and Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He lost his wife some years ago.

Dick Wilson and wife Celia moved back to Boise, Idaho, and celebrated their 50th anniversary.

Lee Kane and wife Carol enjoyed lunch with Lee's freshman roommate in Blair Hall, Brad Hait, and wife Lee, during a trip to Laguna Beach, Calif.

Lee attended a Lafayette tennis match at St. Joseph's University and met Rev. Alexander Veronis '54, a Greek Orthodox priest whose grandson was playing for St. Joseph's. Veronis retired after 50 years in the same parish in Lancaster, Pa. Lee also keeps in touch with his tennis teammate Charles Du Mond, a retired podiatrist in Hemmings, Colo.

Don King attended St. John's University School of Law, where he was elected to law review. After several years in private practice and as corporate counsel for the city of Newark, he was appointed to the Superior Court of New Jersey, where he served 21 years before retiring. He and wife Gwen have a son, John, also an attorney.

Grand Cru Wine Consulting, co-founded by David Beckwith '01 and two business partners, was featured in "The Brains Behind Some of the Finest Cellars," the On Wine column by novelist Jay McInerney in the The Wall Street Journal (April 19). "We are very European centric in our tastes as are our clients," says Beckwith, describing his New York-based concierge service for well-heeled wine aficionados. "We primarily help clients obtain older, vintage wines while managing their collections."

Beckwith, who graduated with majors in art and history, says his experience on The Hill gave him the confidence to pursue this unique career. "I always found Lafayette and its professors to be very open-minded in terms of any direction one might take." During senior year, he often cooked dinners, with wine, for friends at his house on Cattell Street. "I would then write my own tasting notes and compare them to Wine Advocate and Wine Spectator. I was that guy," says Beckwith, who also took a wine course during his study-abroad semester in Florence.

He honed his skills as a sommelier at Babbo, the Manhattan restaurant, and Zachys, the Scarsdale, N.Y.-based wine retailer and auction house. These days, attending auctions and bidding on behalf of clients is one of Beckwith's roles at Grand Cru.

"I was born to do this," says Beckwith, who merges a refined palate with business acumen. On a recent day, he sorted through 400 or 500 bottles in two EuroCaves in a Central Park West kitchen, selecting bottles for a dinner party. He also put aside about two cases of wine, including some 1982 Lafite, to send off to auction. As Beckwith told the Journal, "Given the price it's trading for—about $3,000 right now—and the price he paid for it, it's smarter to sell it than drink it. The client stands to realize a nice profit."

Carl Albero: The first resident has moved into The Albero House for Adults at St. Mary's Home for Disabled Children in Norfolk, Va., dedicated Sept. 19. Carl endowed the Lucille K. Albero Memorial Scholarship at Lafayette, in memory of his mother, to aid a deserving engineering student, and financially supports other worthy causes.

Skip Ellison expressed pleasure with descriptive comments about Walter Ball and recalled the grant he received from the College, the main reason he gives to the Annual Fund.

Gary Evans, trustee emeritus, spoke at the dedication of the Ahart Family Arts Plaza, named in honor of Edward Ahart '69 and Catherine Ahart P '97 '03. The plaza is part of the Williams Arts Campus.

Walter Oechsle thanked me (Glenn Grube) for the kudos about Christa's and his funding of the Oechsle Center for Global Education, adding, "It again felt much better giving the money to a worthwhile cause than it felt making it."

Tricia and Soc Hiotakis are now full-time residents of Homosassa, Fla. Our reunion committee recalls the infamous planning meeting at "Soc's hotel," Montauk, N.Y., when Ray Jacoby underestimated the driving time from central Pennsylvania and arrived exhausted.

Nancy and Russ Grimes traveled to Tanzania and Bermuda. Although a retired professor, Russ goes to his University of Virginia chemistry building office three days a week.

Kurt Klunder attended a wedding near West Chester, Pa.

Carole and Chuck Lusch were a hit during the Dancing with the Reading Stars performance at Yocum Institute for Arts Education in Wyomissing, Pa.

Barbara and Dick Souders '59 and sons attended the Lafayette Legacy Dinner. I believe Dick received the scholarship Lafayette awarded the highest-ranking male Phillipsburg (N.J.) High School graduate in 1955. He was always a few percentage points ahead of this columnist, so I was fortunate the Ford Foundation offered me an opportunity to attend Lafayette in 1953 at the end of my sophomore year at Phillipsburg. I hope to see Dick in 2015 when our high school class celebrates its 60th.

Dr. Robert de von Flindt, child psychologist, died Sept. 20, 2012. He attended Lafayette but received his bachelor's from Monmouth College and his master's and Ph.D. from Arizona State University. He spent most of his career at University of Manitoba on the faculty of medicine. Wife Marilyn survives him.

Russell H. Granger died May 16. We had a common bond: He graduated Valley Stream Central High School in 1953, and I became that district's superintendent in the 1980s. Russ authored a series of successful corporate training programs. Wife Janet survives him.

William R. Metzgar, husband of Ann, died Aug. 2 after a long bout with cancer. The Metzgars had planned to attend our 55th reunion, but health problems prevented the trip. William was one of the most regular attendees at reunions, class cruises, and College events.

Phil Wolfe noted Craig Jones '59 revitalized the golf team at Lafayette through persistence and donations. Craig died March 21 as a result of an automobile accident in Florida.

A wonderful time was had by those who attended our 55th reunion: Ed Alkire, Bob Beane, Dave Branch, Doug Cherry, Dick Cole, Jack Downes, Art Fost, Mark Hammerstone, Bob Harris, Jim Hourihan, Lem Howell, Bill Johnston, Don Kitson, Bill Kurtz, Joanne (Richard) LaBarre, Spencer Manthorpe, Bob McCarron, Ray Pearson, John Piper, Bob Pulcifer, Charles Seastrom, Mackey Skinner, Charles Stevens, Dave Zeyher, and me (Ed Brunswick).

Bob Pulcifer appeared briefly Friday night at the cocktail party. Jerry Flanzbaum had planned to attend but missed his plane in Israel by a day.

The big surprise was the "Cherry crash." On Saturday afternoon, we heard that a Jaguar crashed into a fire hydrant across from the Williams Center for the Arts. An ambulance took our beloved Doug to the hospital. He had a diabetes attack and passed out. The medics treated him quickly and despite a few bruises, he appeared at the class dinner Saturday night, ready to wrestle anyone who challenged him. The Jaguar? Totaled.

The Graduates entertained us at Friday dinner in Marquis Hall.

After dinner, many went to Colton Chapel to hear President Daniel H. Weiss give his final

Pang '10 on Track for Law and Social Justice Career

After graduating from UCLA Law School, where his team won a national moot court competition, Jason Pang '10 began a clerkship with a federal district court judge in San Francisco. He has already been hired to begin work at the global law firm Ropes & Gray upon completion of the clerkship.

"I would like to practice in the areas of government enforcement of white collar regulations, general commercial litigation, and health care," says Pang. "My interest in social justice was a catalyst for my interest in law school because laws are social rules that we can change to further our collective view of social justice."

Pang was a member of the team that won the eighth annual Williams Institute Moot Court Competition, the only national competition dedicated to the areas of sexual orientation and gender identity law. He also was comments editor for UCLA Law Review, articles editor for Journal of Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity Law, and a member of UCLA Law Mock Trial team.

Pang received first prize in the Beverly Hills Bar Association's Rule of Law Writing Competition, which was presented at a gathering of California Supreme Court justices.

A government & law and philosophy graduate, Pang was a member of Lafayette's mock trial team that won the national competition in 2010. He says that experience helped develop his analytical and persuasive abilities. He also gives credit to George Panichas, Hogg Professor of Philosophy, for further developing his analytical thinking and writing skills.

An EXCEL Scholar, he conducted research with John Kincaid, Meyner Professor of Government and Public Service, on presidential law and federalism.

State of the College address. He highlighted the many changes instituted during his tenure.

Saturday was the parade around College Hill. Lunch was held on the newly refurbished Quad. A big tent held everyone; our classmates sat together at two tables.

Dinner Saturday night was a relaxed finale. Ed Alkire was master of ceremonies. John Piper provided comments about classmates we have lost since the 50th reunion.

Rather than wait for the 60th reunion, it was decided to hold a "58th for the Class of '58" in 2016.

On Dec. 3, 1971, Bill Greenip '44, then secretary of the Alumni Association, sent a letter to Tom Morgan regarding a conversation that George Watson had with me (Ed Brunswick).

Dave Zeyher had been class correspondent, and my name was thrown into the hat. Ed Alkire used the back of that letter to outline his remarks for the class dinner.

Al Karetsky has had serious medical problems but is back to playing golf.

Frank T. Yost, a 40-year resident of Bowie, Md., died in 2011. Born in Easton and an Air Force veteran, Frank was retired from the U.S. Patent Office.

Joseph B. "Joe" Pisarra, Chevy Chase, Md., died Nov. 3, 2012. An economics and business graduate, he was a managing partner in the Ergonomics office furniture firm. Wife Barbara survives him.

Mike Houldin wrote of the annual visit of Al Caesar, Bob Lotz, and wives to his place on Swan's Island, Maine. Max Creswell, who volunteers ministry for a small church on the island, also attended. Mike hears from Bob Pulcifer, Dave Hutchison, Charlie "World Traveler" Rose, and George Jarden.

Frank G. Nikles died March 14, 2009. Born in Allentown, Pa., he was a project manager and cost estimator for the former Fuller Company and F.S. Smith in Bethlehem, Pa., where he worked for 41 years, retiring in 1998. Wife Ruth Ann and brother Donald J. Nikles '60 survive him.

Dick Poey created a memorial bronze figure, A Quiet Moment (see photo online), which was installed in the client's garden just before the Fourth of July. In May, Dick installed Salsa in a year-long outdoor exhibition in Mankato, Minn. Contact info: 16465 Ellerdale Lane, Eden Prairie, MN 55346-1430, (952) 949-3444, poeyart@comcast.net.

Dr. Al Rosenbluth, retired heart surgeon, and wife Margy lunched with Steve '58 and Nina Fried visiting Yosemite National Park with Margy's cousin, Ron May '58 and wife Judy. Al notes: "When South College burned, I lost all my belongings and was temporarily housed with Ron and Steve at Kirby Dorm." Nina and Steve live in Cave Creek, Ariz., and Judy and Ron in Chicago. Al's contact info: 3851 Diamante Place, Encino, CA 91436-4149, (818) 981-6551, arosenbluth@yahoo.com.

Norm Sensinger moved to wife Lee's place at 110 Homeland Ave., Baltimore, MD 21212-3434, (410) 206-3155. He attended the Chi Phi National Convention in June. Norm's email address: nsensinger@comcast.net.

Jadwin F. "Jad" Sortore, 75, died July 16. Born and raised in Metuchen, N.J., he graduated from Metuchen High School. At Lafayette, he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Kirby Government and Law Society, was fraternity social chairman, and played intramural sports. A government and law graduate, Jad entered the Navy through the Reserve Officer Candidate program in Newport, R.I., and was commissioned a naval officer. After serving as a naval gunnery officer in Vietnam, Jad earned a master's from Brown University, where he became an assistant professor of navigation. He served as captain of the USS Fairfax County, as well as 13 different ship and shore stations in his 26-year Navy career. He rose to commander. Upon retiring from active duty, he returned to Metuchen, N.J., with wife Marian, and as the senior naval science instructor, formed, directed, and taught the Naval Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps program at Linden High School in New Jersey for 11 years. For eight years, the program won the coveted Navy Honor School award from the Secretary of the Navy. In 1997, the Sortores moved to Aiken, S.C.

Don Kein, Jad's closest friend and Kappa Sigma fraternity brother, gave a memorable eulogy at the memorial service. Bill Sanders, Norm Sensinger, Rick Huebner, Chuck Wynn, Chip Pfautz, and Art Forrest spoke. Condolences also came from Gerry Crean, Ed Feather, Bruce Forbes, Bill Kennedy, Jim Mallay, Al Rosenbluth, and the Reverend George Werner. Jad was buried with full military honors. Marian survives him. Her contact info: 227 Birch Tree Circle, Aiken, SC 29803-1016, (803) 643-3179, roosterr@gforcecable.com.

Donald L. Thew, 81, of Nazareth, Pa., died June 22, just a week after he and wife Dolores celebrated their 54th anniversary. Don was born in Shamokin, Pa., and graduated from Massanutten Academy in Woodstock, Va. He served in the Army during the Korean War. An electrical engineering graduate, Don was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and Institute of Radio Engineers. He was an American Institute of Electrical Engineers secretary and played freshman basketball. Employed by AT&T in Allentown, Pa., for 30 years, he was an engineering supervisor, retiring in 1989. He coached girls' softball in Phillipsburg, N.J., and boys' youth baseball in Nazareth, Pa. Dolores' contact info: 291 Schoneck Ave., Nazareth, PA 18064-1222, (610) 759-5607.

Dave Trutt lives in Jerusalem eight months of the year but returns to the States in midsummer and to Deerfield Beach, Fla. during January and February. He notes he "morphed" into an observant modern orthodox Jew. Contact info: 14A/12 Tovia ben Hefetz St., Jerusalem, Israel, 93585, (732) 710-4020, davetrutt@gmail.com.

Jerry Turnauer and wife Sandye visited Jerusalem for a convention in October 2012, followed by three weeks in Netanya for their Israeli grandson's bar mitzvah. In March, they broke their 20-year tradition of visiting Israel during that month. Instead, the families came to the U.S. for Passover, followed by the bar mitzvah of cousin Jacob in Florida.

Jerry attended Reunion. He has established the Dean Frank R. Hunt Emergency Scholarship endowment for students, the only scholarship at Lafayette offering

The Annual Fund campaign is ably managed by Al Siegel and Larry Knudsen. The Class of 1960 has consistently remained well above the mean in percentage of participants. This year, total giving tripled.

Phil Bollman (philb@chemcosystems.net) and wife Bernice established an endowed full scholarship. Phil wanted to provide an opportunity for a student-athlete with good grades and financial need.

Wayne Nordberg (w.nordberg@hballc.com) took his economics degree to Wall Street, attending Citibank's trust and investment training program. After compiling an impressive résumé as a partner and investment officer in several firms, he retired from Lord Abbett & Co. in 1998. A member of Lafayette's Board of Trustees for 12 years, Wayne, now emeritus, serves as an investment consultant for the Committee on Investments. In addition, he was a major contributor to the campaign to build and improve the Skillman Library and is a member of Société d'Honneur.

Following retirement, Wayne founded Hollow Brook Wealth Management in 2000, where he continues as chair and CIO. Wayne hosts an annual summer seminar at Lake Conneaut, Pa., featuring speakers from U.S. News & World Report and the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland to discuss present and future financial and economic issues.

Joe Boylan, after many years of coaching and a 20-year stint at Loyola University as athletic director, feels he has fulfilled the admonition and advice of Edwin Coddington, professor of history, "You don't want to go to law school; you should work with kids." Joe attended the ceremony honoring Coddington at the 2013 Reunion. Post-Lafayette, Joe spent two years in the Army. With a bachelor's in history, Joe became a high school basketball coach and held a summer position as captain of the Stone Harbor, N.J., beach patrol, working with fellow Theta Delta Chi Tom Daly, for 12 years. Joe earned a master's from Johns Hopkins in 1969. Following an assistant basketball coaching job at American University, where he met up with former Lafayette assistant coach Gary Williams, he was associate basketball head coach at Rutgers. Later as assistant athletic director, Joe helped establish the school's first academic support program for student-athletes. During Joe's 17-year tenure, Rutgers appeared in seven postseason tournaments. Joe retired in 2010. He and wife Molly live in Cape May Court House, N.J. Their daughter, Heather, married Dave Wojcik, head basketball coach at San Jose State. The Wojciks have one son, Jake.

Bob Brodie participated in a 250-mile bicycling trip through New York's Hudson Valley. Bob's trip east along the Erie Canal in summer 2012 covered over 400 miles.

When I (David Saalfrank) was 3, my Uncle George invited me into the cab of his Reading Lines freight locomotive. He had me blow the whistle, and I was hooked for life. On my 75th birthday in June, my family surprised me with a one-day course to learn how to operate—and I will actually run—a steam locomotive on a tourist line in Essex, Conn.

Bob Brodie '60 pedaled more than 400 miles along the Erie Canal.

Joe Boylan '60 devoted his career to working with high school and college athletes.

Ed Baumgardner and wife Trudy celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a Baltic cruise. Ed retired from Pennsylvania Department of Transportation. He has served as secretary/treasurer of the Central Pennsylvania Lafayette Alumni Chapter since 1981. In 2002, Ed received the William E. Greenip Jr. '44 Award for service to chapters. Ed Auble, who chairs the Alumni Association's International Committee, will monitor the Oechsle Center for Global Education construction progress, as well as the research and teaching projects connected with its mission. Ed also worked with Ilan Peleg, Dana Professor of History, to secure a speaker for the second annual Class of 1961 International Speaker Series event. He attended Alumni Summer College. Ed's 2012 hip replacement didn't work; in June, he had it successfully replaced.

Dan Schutter and wife Linda moved to a retirement community in Columbus, N.C.

Tom Grimm teaches at his local community college and does real estate consulting in Little Harbor, Fla. He also leads an effort to convert an old firehouse to a cultural center.

Stan Novaco, Vero Beach, Fla., is retired from Ford. He and wife Alice have two children.

Boice McCain retired after 31 years as a metallurgical engineer at Hercules. He has his own consultancy in Terre Haute, Ind., and specializes in forensic and metallurgical failure analysis. He and wife Phyllis have three grown children.

Doug Hobby's son, Brian '03, was married in September to Jennifer Troch, a research scientist from Rutgers. They live in Hoboken, N.J. Daughter Catherine '05 became engaged last June to Matt McBride, a Lehigh graduate and professional baseball player with the Colorado Rockies.

Allan R. Bilder died July 1 in Hammonton, N.J. A graduate of Easton's Wilson High School, he earned a bachelor's in history. Allan retired from Ancora State Hospital in 2000 as manager of human resources after 36 years of service. He served in the Marine Corps during the Vietnam War and was honorably discharged as a lance corporal. Wife Eileen and brother Wayne Bilder '64 survive him.

David K. Towers, 73, died July 2. Connie, his wife of 50 years, survives him. He served in the Army as a captain during the Vietnam War. Dave was an industrial engineer for AMP Inc. for 28 years, retiring in 1999. He was a member and president of the board of directors of Caroline Nursing and Rehab and a member of Caroline Country Club in Denton, Md. Dave was a member of Kirby House.

Dale A. Van Ort died June 26 at his residence in Dallas. Wife Molly Nelson survives him. Dale served as president of Freeman Decorating Co., a division of Freeman Companies, where he worked from 1977 to 2003. Dale did not graduate with the class but identified with the Class of 1962.

Frank and Cheryl Sarubbi hosted the wedding of daughter Angela to Ryan Rhodes in Houston. Tom Burns and wife Nancy and Jim and Marie Lyttle attended.

Bob and Betsy Kauffman hosted the chemical engineer golf outing in Leucadia, Calif.

Matt Thomases is seeking a permanent home in a major sculpture garden for Abstract Tree—Spring. His 15-foot-high steel and glass work weighs one ton and is composed of "stained glass in the round in the air."

Fraternity brothers and former roommates Dick Gilbert and Wayne Wrightstone '61 visited me (Jim Hartsel) this summer (see photos online). Wayne and wife Marianne also visited Ted and Beverly Elsasser in Tullahoma, Tenn.

John Cooper is retiring. We thank him for his many years of hard work and support as class president. Thanks also to the reunion committee for the effort to ensure our 50th would be—and was—our very best reunion. With Jim Giudice joining Ron Garfunkel and the committee as president, I (Fred Day) am sure the 55th, 60th, and beyond will be equally successful.

At times, the '63 reunion resembled a comedy convention. Ron Garfunkel, reunion chair for 40 years, envisioned 60th-reunion uniforms as hospital gowns with paper slippers, "because by then, walking will be optional." Don Miller predicted he would attend the 75th reunion "in an urn."

After 30 years teaching Russian and European history at University of Massachusetts, Robert E. "Bob" Jones retired in 2007. He recently published a book and continues to do research and writing. Bob and wife Maxine, whom he met at Lafayette, have two children and four grandchildren.

Clyde "Buck" Crebs attended his first reunion to see former football teammate Bill McClure. Buck was mentored by the late George McGaughey, freshman football coach and director of intramurals, a "stand-up man

Roald Bergethon. "Look to your right, look to your left," Bergethon told him on his first day on College Hill, "because at least one of these people will be gone after this year."

Stan Wetschler recalled saving the dignity of his fraternity in an annual athletic-academic competition among social organizations. Alpha Chi Rho had zero points until Stan earned a point by winning an Ugly Man contest.

Mark Shyman chose the late William W. Watt, the fabled professor of English and humorist, to win his Lafayette MVP award. Shyman noted Watt "set me up" to understand the importance of communicating, passionately and properly. Shyman thanked Watt in a poem that was published in a college literary magazine.

Consider a contribution to the Leopard Race Car program (I.D.E.A.L.), on which Scott Hummel, professor of mechanical engineering, briefed us at our class dinner at Paul Barrett's invitation. Scott would be happy to paint us onto a chassis as a sponsor or sponsors. Howie Learned could probably have miniature, painted models made for us.

Bob Burns reports that 174 classmates (73.73%) made a contribution to the class fund resulting in a $78,040 increase in the Class Speaker Fund (including a generous pledge by Ron Garfunkel) and total gifts of $248,561. He thanks classmates who contacted others to encourage them to come to our 50th and discuss with them what they might be able to give to our 50th reunion gift. During the dinner, he listed the top lifetime contributors from memory but failed to mention Richard Meer and Marty Greenwald, who were there, and Len Andrew, Bob Domush, and Sam Seltzer, who were not present (see complete list online).

Gary Coelho: "As hard it is to conceive that 50 years have passed since our graduation, I remain today on a high after a wonderful weekend. My wife, Jane, and I have returned for several reunions, becoming friendly with classmates I had little or no interaction with as students, but our mutual love of Lafayette has brought us closer over the years. Great being with John Cooper, Steve Minkel, Jeb Bell, and their wives, Stan Wetschler, Don Miller, Steve Roth and Mark Shyman—obviously misnamed. Terrific seeing Allan Lichtman, Len "Lenzo" Goldstein, Billy Frank, Ira Kreizman, and Bill Herzig, whom I have not seen for 50 years and yet it seemed like yesterday when we spoke. Others I had the pleasure of spending time with were Howard Learned, Roger Sirlin, Jim Giudice, Burt Zarins, Jim Kerge, John O'Brien, Artie Topilow, Bob Burns, Fred Day, and my good friends Ron Garfunkel and Mike Stillman. We were impressed at how beautiful the campus was and appreciate where the College seems to be headed."

On Friday evening of Reunion Weekend, the returning Theta Deltas met at College Hill Tavern and then on to MeGs and MaDs for dinner. Bob Sellar and Nancy, Joe Gillings and Pat, George Royster and Marcy, Fred Day and Dana, Hank Picken and Cheryl, John Cooper and Josie, and Bill Wood and Jane attended.

Kenneth Florey, who recently published a book, retired from Southern Connecticut State University four years ago; at one time he chaired the English department and headed the graduate council. Specialty subjects were history of the English language, medieval literature, Greek mythology, and African American literature. He and wife Emmy travel frequently to California to see daughter Katherine, a tenured professor of law at UC–Davis, and the three grandchildren.

Rich Hauser spent his career in financial and administrative management of nonprofits, including schools and social service agencies. He moved to San Francisco and since retiring takes classes at University of San Francisco, reads, travels, and enjoys the outdoors. He served as activity chair of the Bay Area Alumni Chapter, arranging museum tours, baseball games, Lafapalooza, and Lafayette–Lehigh telecasts.

Rich Thompson left Bell Labs in 1989 for a job as telecommunication professor at University of Pittsburgh and was chair for 17 years. He wrote textbooks and academic papers. Retiring in August 2012, he and wife Sandy moved to Vermilion, Ohio, to be near their daughter and her family. Rich sees Phil Giles in Florida and keeps in touch with Bob Wasmund and Ron Johnson.

Tom and Rosalie Greenbaum welcomed their third grandchild, Leo Charles Greenbaum. Son David and wife Laura are delighted daughter Kathryn has a brother.

On July 20, Jeff Brown, George Rubin, and Bob Capperella went to Atlantic City, N.J., to enjoy dinner with DU brothers Bob Longo '63, Jim Giudice '63, Jim Sorrentino '61, and Tom Heist '61 and their wives.

Jim Heatherington started Heatherington & Fields CPAs in Tulsa, Okla., in 1986. He had previously done tax work after joining Arthur Andersen in 1971. Jim says his tax practice provides the same mental challenges as chess—in which he was active on the Lafayette team—but with much better remuneration. He and wife Gretchen have two sons.

Tom Snyder wrote from Mozambique, where he and wife Gina visited their younger son and his wife, both assigned to the American Embassy. The Snyders arrived from Lisbon after attending the Rotary International conference. They later stopped in Washington, D.C., to visit their elder son and his wife, also a foreign-service officer, and their two grandchildren. In April, Tom stepped down after six years as the founding executive director of the Society for the History of Navy Medicine. He now adds the title of prospective commander general-elect of the Naval Order of the United States. A current board member of the Solano Community Foundation, Tom recently stepped down from the board of directors of the Albany Medical College Alumni Association. Before his 2003 retirement, he practiced medicine with Kaiser Permanente Health Care Program.

Ron Levitt retired in 2009 after 42 years of practicing law in New Jersey. He and wife Jill live in Carlsbad, Calif. When time permits, they take classes at UC–San Diego. Son Brendon is an architect in the San Francisco Bay

Pompanella '88 Manages $6 Billion USPS Budget

"Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night, stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds" reads the famous inscription on New York City's James A. Farley Post Office.

That motto is literally enabled by Karen A. Pompanella '88, manager, transportation portfolio, who purchases air and surface transportation, and fuel. "I have 10 offices across the country and 160 professionals all working to get the right transportation at the right price in the right place at the right time to move the mail," she says.

In her previous position as manager of air transportation, Pompanella played key roles in the air cargo network procurement and review process that resulted in a seven-year contract award to Federal Express valued at approximately $10.5 billion.

"Lafayette's focus on developing critical thinking and communication skills has served me well," says Pompanella, an A.B. engineering graduate with an MBA from University of Maryland. "My professors were more concerned that I understood 'what' I was doing and 'why' I was doing it.

"Lafayette prepared me to accept future challenges with the confidence that I could be effective at whatever role I choose to take. Knowing how to think through issues, solve problems, and communicate with people at all levels of the organization has been critical to my success."

An Alumni Admissions Representative for nearly 20 years, Pompanella got involved because she wanted to help spread the word about Lafayette. "I like talking with students about what they've done and where they want to go. Some have a thoughtful, detailed approach while others are more 'seat of the pants.' I enjoy explaining how Lafayette's offerings can further their visions."

Tilger '94 Helps Externs Soar at Philadelphia Flyers

Mentoring may not be part of the official job description for Shawn Tilger '94, but it's high on his personal agenda. As senior vice president of business operations for the Philadelphia Flyers/Comcast-Spectacor, Tilger helps Lafayette graduates launch their careers.

Courtney Dixon '08, ESPN Manager, Sports Management—who completed an externship with Tilger during her senior year—was hired immediately after graduation by ESPN's digital marketing department. Dixon, a mathematics graduate, says the externship helped her “make a decision between pursuing a career in finance or sports.”

“We would like the students to take away a better understanding of how a professional sports and entertainment organization works,” says Tilger, a government and law graduate with a master's in sports management from Springfield College. “Many facets have to work together to put the product on the ice. We have them spend each day in a different department within our business model and hopefully when they watch the next game, all that they have seen throughout the week makes more sense.”

In January, Tilger hosted Chris Rodrigues '14 (government and law/history), Brandon Turner '14 (economics), Sara Sproul '13 (economics/art), and Adam Lucosky '13 (anthropology and sociology).

“He emphasized the importance of doing something that makes you happy,” says Sproul, who aspired to a career in marketing research and is now a research analyst for a global pharmaceutical market research company in Clarks Summit, Pa. “Although this idea is simple, I found it to be incredibly honest and inspiring coming from such a successful businessman.”

Brandon Turner '14 (L-R), Sara Sproul '13, and Shawn Tilger '94 at the Comcast-Spectacor office in Philadelphia.

American Studies and Center for Democracy and Election Management there. He has pursued a career in government, nongovernmental organizations, notably the Carter Center in Atlanta, and in academe. He has written 17 books, with The North American Idea: A Vision of a Continental Future his most recent. He was with the Peace Corps in Malaysia; received his master's and Ph.D. from Harvard, where he also taught; served in the U.S. National Security Council; and was a Fulbright professor in Mexico. Bob and wife Margaret contributed to an endowment for a new international affairs lecture series at Lafayette. Former President Jimmy Carter delivered the inaugural lecture April 22 and Bob introduced him (video: vimeo.com/64701075, photos: bit.ly/15ciLq4). Bob received an honorary degree from Lafayette at the 2013 commencement and an honorary degree from American University of Nigeria, a university he helped establish. Despite a four-year struggle against fourth-stage colorectal cancer, Bob says the last year has been among the most rewarding of his life: the birth of his first grandchild, Everett Robert Eisenberg; deepening bonds with his wife, two children, and his brothers; in building closer friendships; and in reconnecting with Lafayette through the lecture series and the honorary degree.

William Patberg, a partner in the Toledo, Ohio, office of Shumaker, Loop & Kendrick LLP, is recognized as a “Leading Lawyer” in the area of natural resources and environment in the 2013 Chambers USA Guide to America's Leading Business Lawyers. Bill is also AV Peer Review Rated by Martindale-Hubbell and has been selected for inclusion in Best Lawyers in America. He is a member of the Toledo and Columbus bar associations and of the environmental law committee of the Ohio State Bar Association. Bill received his J.D., magna cum laude, from University of Minnesota.

Recipient of the Great Teacher Award at Temple University, James Shellenberger '69 says, "I want my students to do well and feel good about themselves."

On April 25, Temple University Beasley School of Law Professor James Shellenberger received the Great Teacher Award. The graduating law class also selected him to receive the George P. Williams Award, presented to the law faculty member "who has made the most significant contribution to their Law School career"—a law school record five times.

In 30 years at Temple, Jim has taught courses at the heart of the criminal law curriculum. He taught in the law school's semester program in Tokyo in 1999 and since 2004 has directed and taught its summer program in Rome every other year. Temple previously recognized Jim in 1995 with the Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching. He was named to the James E. Beasley Chair in Law in 2007 and in 2011 was honored with the Outstanding Faculty Service Award. The Temple Law Alumni Association recognized him with the Murray Shusterman Award in 2012 for his commitment to outstanding teaching.

Dr. Tim Whiting, retired from primary care internal medicine. He and companion Kate Schomp split their time between Chapala, Mexico, and Martha's Vineyard, Mass. Tim has two unmarried children. He attended this year's Boston Marathon, where the bomb blast occurred, and later attended the memorial service, where one of the speakers was Ronne Friedman, rabbi at Temple Israel in Boston. The two later spoke by phone.

Dr. Daniel Goldfarb Allentown, Pa., died May 22, 2010. He graduated in biology and took his medical degree from SUNY-Purchase. He is survived by wife Diane "Debbie."

Rich Agins is leaving suburban Philadelphia for the outdoors of Arizona. He has had a varied career as an attorney and an accountant, and as a manager of a construction firm and of a jewelry manufacturer. He is especially proud of his family. He plans to remarry after the move.

Larry Cook, Brooklyn, works in Manhattan, where he is director of finance for Broadway Cares/Equity Fights AIDS, an organization that helps to fight the disease and its effects on the lives of sufferers. He visits son Nathan in Montana and is proud that his granddaughter entered high school this fall.

Stephen Hutnik, a middle school principal, retired May 17 from the Lee County (Fla.) School District after 42 years, 38 as an administrator. He often visits his girlfriend in Avalon, N.J. Stephen now plays golf and visits Orlando to see his two daughters and five grandchildren. Twin granddaughters, 11th graders Caitlyn and McKenzie, play for Florida's No. 1-ranked girls' AAU softball team. Both are pitchers, and colleges are scouting them.

Pete Soraruf practices family medicine in Kennett Square, Pa. He graduated from Jefferson Medical College, where for many years admissions were under Sam Conly '41, a graduate of both Jefferson and Lafayette, who shepherded applications from his alma mater.

Mick Weinstein enjoys golfing—ran into Julius "Dr. J" Erving on the links—and diving with sharks (see photos online).

After graduation, Greg Woods was drafted into the Army, serving at Redstone Arsenal in Alabama as an electrical engineering assistant. After discharge, he worked as a device and planning engineer for Western Electric in Allentown, Pa., making transistors and, for his last 24 months there, semiconductor memory. In 1975, he married and began 35 years of work for Patriot-News Co. in Harrisburg, Pa., creating its technology department. In 1999, he took responsibility for software and electronic controls on the new $25 million Goss press in Mechanicsburg, Pa., the last double-wide newspaper press manufactured in the U.S. In January 2010, he retired and started a consulting business in software (OpenVMS) and energy management (installing variable frequency drives). As of 2011, he teaches programmable controllers (invented after he graduated!) at Harrisburg Area Community College. He has two married sons and two grandchildren.

Jazz Pianist Roper '60 Plays through Time

Ballads and boogies are played with an elegant fire, an easy zest. This pianist sounds so comfortable, so deep in the pocket; he could be meditating.

Flanked by a bassist and a drummer, Dave Roper '60 has turned the Hotel Bethlehem's Tap Room into a jazz nest on first Thursdays and first Sundays for the past nine years, spinning "Georgia on My Mind," "Satin Doll," and other standards.

Roper grew up in Bethlehem with a single mother who stirred his passion for jazz piano with Erroll Garner's live album Concert by the Sea.

At Lafayette he decided to double as an English teacher and a public pianist. He settled on the first career during a Great Victorians class with William Watt, the legendary English professor and humorist. He settled on the other career while playing satirical ditties in Watt's faculty shows, Dixieland tunes at parties, and stardust numbers at a restaurant. He moonlighted as a trombonist in the ROTC marching band.

Roper moonlighted for the next 50 years—three nights a week at the Cellar Door in Allentown, while earning a master's degree in English at Lehigh University, and a few nights a week at the King George Inn in Allentown, while teaching English at Emmaus High School. He coached Scholastic Scrimmage teams to seven state championships before retiring from teaching in 2002.

The King George was Roper's roost for 15 years. He played smoothly mixed showstoppers ("Mack the Knife") with romances ("Misty") and snazzy hybrids ("I'll Be Seeing You" linked to tunes by Ravel and Chopin). He ended sets with "biggies": a West Side Story medley, the pop aria "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina."

On two other days, she teaches at the local high school, supporting students with literacy, numeracy, and behavioral needs. Felicia missed her annual U.S. trip this year, staying in Australia to help her husband after back surgery.

Lisa Moore Rickard and husband Scott '75 celebrated their eldest son Jack's wedding in May in historic St. Mary's City, Md. Joan Parachini Gossett attended with husband Rick.

Rich Smith writes that he was diagnosed with multiple myeloma two and a half years ago and this has prevented him from attending events at Lafayette. Part of his recovery path included a blood stem cell transplant. Rich's aim was to be released from the hospital to walk his youngest daughter down the aisle in May as wife Patti and other four children watched. Prior to his diagnosis, Rich was active with Scouting and his church. He sang in the church choir and taught religious education classes to fifth and sixth graders for 19 years. He continues to work as manager of process and product design at ArcelorMittal USA.

Our Class of 1988's 25th reunion was terrific, with more than 100 attending. Thanks to chair Beth Freebairn. She did a terrific job on the T-shirts, too. Go to the Lafayette College Class of 1988 group page on Facebook to see some great photos (including Bob Longo demonstrating how to use flip-flops) by Jennifer Reeves Gidaro, Jamie Dublirer Hoff, Dave Rose, Katherine Pannell, Tim and Rachel Nelson Moeller, and Eug White.

It seems such a short time ago we were on the Zete lawn watching kids in bounce houses and face-painting. Now much of the talk was of college: visits, applying, and sending off the kids. Ed and Kim Checkur Gibbons told us son Casey '17 will continue the proud family Pard tradition.

Saturday began with the traditional 3k Fun Run. Four of the top 10 finishers were Kristen Fox, 2nd, Beth Freebairn, 7th, Amit Mohindra, 8th, and Derek Hughes, 9th. After the Reunion Parade, we had lunch on the Quad under the tent. Saturday afternoon, we "gathered by the sunshine" of Old Pardee where we started our Campus Crawl. I (Tim Hylan) caught up with Amit, who works in San Francisco at McKesson. Soozy Miller said it was her first time back to a reunion. Emily Kissel Lewis regaled us with funny stories of her time in Africa after graduation.

Saturday night included the class dinner in Marquis Hall followed by dancing under the tent. I caught up with Alicia Delaney Schauer and Rhea Kocik Grate. Alicia teaches French in New Jersey. Rhea teaches Spanish and lives in Alabama.

Gary and Jenny Gardner Dunn organized a Kirby House reunion for over 25 classmates and those from adjacent years.

Thanks to Rachel Nelson Moeller, Kim Checkur Gibbons, Pam Gaary Holran, and Susan Fox for arranging a fitting tribute for our 25th reunion class gift. Details will follow. It was Rachel's first reunion as executive director of Alumni Relations.

Our 20th reunion was a great weekend. Everything seemed to shine in the way that only our campus can.

After lunch, our class met for drinks and a class picture outside Pardee Hall. We wandered the campus, reliving memories, and catching up with old friends. We returned to the Quad for dinner, cocktails, and music. While the younger alums took over the tent, many of us made our way to Campus Pizza.

In 2010, Maroon Club Hall of Fame inductee Tom Kirchhoff was diagnosed with ALS. Tom, a graduate of Cedar Cliff High in Camp Hill, Pa., inspired (then senior and now Penn State) football player Adam Breneman to start a campaign for ALS research, Catch the Cure. Inspired by Tom's theme, "We Will Win," Adam set out to raise $20,000 but to date has collected almost 10 times that amount.

Another Maroon Club Hall of Famer, Ed Hudak, started 33-straight games on the offensive line and played an integral part in Lafayette winning two Patriot League championships. At Merck & Co., he is a senior research engineer. Ed lives in eastern Pennsylvania with wife Arlene and their four children.

In July, Dino Capuano, Chris Johnson, Phil Berkeley, David Poplar, Pete Izmirly, and Brian Hutchison gathered on the banks of the Hudson River in Hoboken, N.J., for the Americanarama Festival of Music. While it was not quite Battle of the Bands, and Barefoot Grass didn't perform, they had a great time.

Five Alumni Help Support a Community Counseling Center

An informal network of alumni who give generously of their time and talent is a vital resource for Daemion Counseling Center, Berwyn, Pa., says Marti Magee, executive director, whose daughter is Emily Magee '10.

The center charges clients based on what they can afford and funds its services through foundation grants and private contributions.

"The common denominator, instilled in Lafayette graduates, is the knowledge that it only takes one person to make a profound difference in another person's life," says Phil Krombolz '84, a Daemion board member. Phil, an anthropology and sociology graduate, owns Krombolz Sheets Insurance, West Chester, Pa., with his father, Dan Krombolz '54.

When Magee joined the center in 2012, Elizabeth Blake '12 was part-time administrative assistant. A French and psychology graduate, Blake interned at Daemion during college and "felt strongly about the mission."

Blake, who also managed the annual campaign letters and newsletter, says she learned to multitask at Lafayette. "As a tour guide and member of the Lafayette Ambassador Committee, I handled open houses and 'selling' the Lafayette experience. The skills came in handy when I recruited items for a silent auction and talked with donors about our mission."

She enlisted her grandfather, Gordon E. Wright '56, a business and economics graduate, and his wife, Mimi, to help raise funds. She also reached out to Phil Krombolz.

At his first meeting, Krombolz met Andy Mullen '94, a psychology graduate who holds a master's in counseling and human relations from Villanova University. A guidance counselor at Conestoga High School in Berwyn, Mullen recently completed his board service but remains involved as an adviser.

Blake, now a client relationship associate at Vanguard, continues to volunteer at Daemion.

Magee was married to the late John T. Magee '68 whose paternal grandfather is John F. Magee 1913, a Lafayette life trustee who served from 1933 to 1960.

John Tully married Laura Kendris '08, June 22 in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, West Brighton, N.Y. Laura is an account executive with Versace in Manhattan. John is a vice president of emerging markets equity sales at Bank of America Merrill Lynch, Manhattan. The newlyweds honeymooned in Paris and the Loire Valley in France, and Mallorca, Spain.

On June 5, Alisa Lando '10 proposed to Sara Kreisel with a daisy at sunset at a botanical garden in Massachusetts (see photo online). Sara proposed to Alisa with a ring at the New York City Gay Pride parade June 30. Others attending were Adam Kline-Schoder '15, Dan Ricken '12, Charles Felix '08, and Julie Ehrlich '11. Sara has worked as a wetland and environmental scientist at Hatch Mott MacDonald since completing her master's in biology from The College of William and Mary in 2010. Alisa began teaching at Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences this fall. She graduated with a master's in chemistry from Boston College in August.

Emily Goldman Garibaldi and husband Peter (Lehigh, 2007) welcomed Lucille Elizabeth on June 20 (see photo online). Elizabeth has already proclaimed maroon her favorite color, much to her father's chagrin.

[ANSWER] Problem-Solving Quotient: One Solution

After considering 26 sources, one team proposed establishing a pilot model for India, which if successful could be applied worldwide. The plan, briefly summarized here, includes vaccinating everyone with the Bacille Calmette-Guerin vaccine at birth and performing blood tests on those in at-risk populations or those who show symptoms of tuberculosis. The model outlines costs and demographics including the fact that 2 million people in India have TB. It estimates that 0.17 percent of those tested will test positive, and all efforts will be made to treat them all.

Those diagnosed with TB would receive treatment based on various factors. Those susceptible to drugs would receive a daily dose of isoniazid, rifampin, pyrazinamide, and ethambutol with direct observed therapy for 8 weeks, followed by 18 weeks of either a daily or twice weekly dose of isoniazid/rifampin. Those with latent TB would receive a dose weekly for 12 weeks of isoniazid and rifampin with direct observed therapy. Highly individualized treatment would be given to those with multi-drug resistant TB, with the core treatment being fluoroquinolone antibiotics (ofloxacin, levofloxacin, and moxifloxacin), an injectable agent (capreomycin, kanamycin, and amikacin), and direct observed therapy. Those with extensively drug-resistant TB would receive two or more second-line or third-line drugs—such as amoxicillin-clavulanate, clarithromycin, clofazimine, and rifabutin—for 26 months with direct observed therapy.

—Members of the team included Mary Higgins '15, biology; Brian Cantor '15, biology; and Victoria Corbit '13. Corbit, a neuroscience graduate, is now in the graduate program at Center for Neuroscience, University of Pittsburgh. She plans to focus on computational and systems neuroscience, specifically investigating how a brain network—the basal ganglia—functions and to eventually model it. She is working in a lab that studies how this system is affected in Parkinson's Disease in primates, and how deep brain stimulation acts as a treatment.
